CONTRIBUTORS

Edwin F. Bryant is Associate Professor of Hinduism at Rutgers University, where he teaches Hindu religion and philosophy. His publications include The Questions for the Origins of Vedic Culture: The Indo-Aryan Migration Debate (2001). He is translator of Krishna: The Beautiful Legend of God, Srimad Bhagavat Purana Book Ten (2004). He is also editor of Sources of the Krishna Tradition (in press) and with Maria Ekstrand, of The Hare Krishna Movement: The Postcharismatic Fate of a Religious Transplant (2004). Bryant is currently working on a translation of Patanjali's Yoga Sutras and its commentaries.

Christian Carpelan is Researcher at the Department of Archaeology at the University of Helsinki. His special field is archaeology of northern and eastern Europe. He has presented papers on the early contacts between Uralic and Indo-European in a number of international settings. He is the co-editor (with Tony Hackens and Hagne Jungner) of Time and Environment: A PAC Seminar (1992) and Early Contacts Between Uralic and Indo-European: Archaeological and Linguistic Considerations (2001).

Madhav M. Deshpande received his MA (1968) at the University of Pune, India and his PhD (1972) at the University of Pennsylvania. In 1972 he joined the University of Michigan where he is currently Professor of Sanskrit and Linguistics. He has published several books and hundreds of articles on Indo-Aryan and Paninian linguistics, religion, and philosophy.

Koenraad Elst earned MA degrees in Philosophy, Chinese Studies and Indian Iranian Studies at the Catholic University of Leuven, Belgium. His PhD dissertation on Hindu nationalism, Decolonizing the Hindu Mind, became a best-seller in India. Making his living mostly by journalism, he has been active as an independent scholar in the fields of comparative religion and philosophy and of the history of India. Among twenty published titles, most attention has been drawn by his Update on the Aryan Invasion Debate; Gandhi and God (a close discussion of the apology of Mahatma Gandhi's assassin Nathuram Godse); The Saffron Swastika: The Notion of "Hindu Fascism"; and Ayodhya: the Case against the Temple.
