To receive your exam scores, follow the instructions on page 5 of your syllabus.

Alternatively, the TA has written the following instructions:

Grades are posted on the FAS (Faculty of Arts and Sciences) website http://fas.rutgers.edu. Students should go to that webpage, and click on FAS Gradebook (at the bottom underneath the "For Students" section). They will have to enter their Net ID, password and then their SSN. The only grade that will come up is their own grade. I posted their "number correct", "percentage" and "letter grade".

What if you can’t get your score this way? I don’t have access to the system, but the TA does. So E-mail the TA (check your syllabus for how) and ask her or him to be sure your score was posted. If it was, the TA will let you know that it was and also will tell you your score. The problem you’re having could be one of two things:

1. You typed the wrong ID number in (this is your social security number) or
2. The system does not have your correct ID number. These numbers are taken directly from the registrar, so you may need to confirm that the number on record is correct.
